Inedit is a different beer, made with two types of beer: traditional malted-barley beer and wheat beer. This wheat, or white, beer is in the style of Witbier, originally from Belgium and made with unmalted wheat.

Using unmalted wheat gives this beer more body and a softer, fuller mouthfeel. Created by Ferran Adrià, the world's most award-winning chef; Inedit was created to pair with a wide variety of culinary creations, even the most complicated citrus-based dishes or ones with bitter notes. Fantastic with starters, salads and oily fish, its versatility means it can also be paired with spicy or sweet-and-sour flavours.

A highly dynamic beer that goes perfectly with the whole taste range.

Gusbourne Brut | £13.00

Aromas of green apple, ripe pear and candied citrus with a fruit driven palate including zesty mandarin, peach, apple pie and hints of ginger.

Gusbourne's vision is to produce worldclass sparkling wines. Not just the best English sparkling wines, but wines that stand on a world stage. Wines that are spectacular, but also happen to come from England.

231 acres of vineyards and elevations spanning two sites – 120 meters results in anywhere between 250 and 300 different base wines, each of which are tasted blind to see what the vintage has provided and which Cuvée it best suits before the blending process can begin. It's this large variety of base wines that sets Gusbourne apart in the UK. That and the exclusivity of the fruits used, which are neither sold nor bought, making each vintage authentically unique.

El Draque Mojito

Cachaça, Brown Sugar, Lime & Mint

The Mojito has many theories of where it originates from, the ‘El Draque’ Mojito originates from Sir Francis Drake with his privateer naming this cocktail after his mentor. Sir Francis was well known for his nickname ‘The Dragon’, this historic Mojito really brings a lime endured kick to the Cachaça rum, so this gave the perfect similarity on the concoction designed for Drake himself.

The drink itself was created to unsettle a stomach problem Drake had on one of his ventures by his Privateer and cousin Richard Drake. The drink was created using local sources from the venture, these included a Brazilian spirit made from pure sugar cane, fresh lime and mint. Hundreds of years after the death of Sir Francis Drake the Cachaça based remedy was being consumed by native Caribbean Settlers as a refreshing drink.

Scottish Single Malts

The Scots have been at the very pinnacle of whisky production for many years. Scotland is recognised all over the world for their diverse regions producing different types of high quality whisky, and throughout the county there are 6 whisky regions. The same basic process is used to produce whisky across the country but subtle variations mean single malts from each region have unique characteristics and flavours. The region should always be considered when choosing a whisky but by no means should it be used as the only guideline.

Highland

The highlands are by far the largest whisky region; the region itself stretches from the north of Glasgow to the north most tip of the east coast. The Highlands offer the most variation in style due to the large proximity covered, this would be why 25% of all whiskies made are produced from the Highland region.

- Glenmorangie 12	£6.00
- Oban 14	£9.00
- Dalwhinnie 15	£6.75

Island

Island whiskies are in a very diverse region, but are renowned for their richness in character. Smokiness is the recurring theme as is the balance. Due to the diversity there are no outlined rules for the island, as the production methods differ greatly.

- Talisker 10	£6.00
- Highland Park 12	£6.00

Lowland

Lowlands is the second biggest whisky region in Scotland in terms of the area covered, but in terms of distilleries it is one of the smallest with only 4 distilleries currently producing whisky. The region itself borders a top of England and north towards Glasgow and the Highlands. Lowland whiskies are formidably known for being light and gentle as-well as offering very little peat.

- Auchentoshan 12	£6.00
- Glenkinchie 12	£7.50

Islay

The Scottish island of Islay is located to the west of the mainland, it is the smallest region in terms of area in Scotland. The tiny island itself contains eight distilleries, each with their own unique smoky character; these whiskies offer a complexity behind the all their peat.

- Laphroaig 10	£7.00
- Bowmore 12	£7.00
- Lagavulin 16	£8.50

Speyside

The region of Speyside is located in the north east of Scotland surrounding the River Spey. It is home to the largest amount of distilleries in Scotland, with most of the worlds famous whiskies coming from Speyside. Speyside whiskies are known for being subtle and a great entry level whisky for any beginner.

Balvenie Carribean Cask 14 | £7.20

A 14-year-old Single Malt matured on traditional oak but finished in Casks previously home to mature Caribbean rum.

To create the ideal finish Malt Master David Stewart, filled American oak casks with his own blend of select West Indian rums. When he judged the casks to be ready, the rum was replaced with the 14-year-old spirit and the wood was put to work adding the final touches.

An exceptional single malt of smooth, honeyed character married with notes of Toffee and fruit. A warm lingering finish.

With gaining this knowledge Masataka founded Japan's first whisky industry.

This milk beer is distilled and treated to a secret blending process. The vodka is then triple filtered and finished, before being hand bottled.
