May 2023: Luxury Family Hotels, a collection of five family-focused properties across southern England, is delighted to announce the launch of their Babymoon Break in partnership with innovative pregnancy pillow brand, bbhugme and award-winning natural skincare brand, ishga. The collection's new Babymoon Break promises expectant parents time to relax, unwind and reconnect, whether it be on the Cornish coast at Fowey Hall or amongst the trees of the New Forest at New Park Manor.

This newly launched one night break aims to bring the ultimate in relaxation to both expectant parents, including a blissful night's sleep with the help of bbhugme's signature Pregnancy Pillow. The pillows, aimed to alleviate pressure on joints while supporting a growing bump, have been heralded by the likes of Vogue Williams, Princess Eugenie and Victoria Hearn.

The Babymoon Break also features a 70-minute ishga pregnancy massage for mum-to-be and a 25-minute treatment for a partner. Products for each treatment will be selected from ishga's mineral-rich, organic collection. The brand's best kept secret - Scottish Hebridean seaweed - is incorporated throughout their product range, and is renowned for its antioxidant, anti-ageing and health properties, containing a host of vitamins, minerals, trace elements and amino acids, which nurture and protect the skin.

Full use of the hotel's leisure facilities are included in the one night package, so expectant parents can enjoy a dip in the swimming pools, time to unwind in the lounges and even an evening film at the on-site cinemas. After a day of indulgence, parents-to-be can expect dinner at the hotel's restaurant, with dishes showcasing the very best seasonal ingredients and a special menu with produce from the local area.

About Luxury Family Hotels

Luxury Family Hotels is a collection of five family-focused hotels with distinct personalities across southern England. These include Fowey Hall in Cornwall, a Victorian manor house overlooking the Fowey Estuary, as well as Moonfleet Manor, a sprawling country estate with views of Dorset's Jurassic Coast. Nestled in the heart of the West Country is Woolley Grange, a secluded Jacobean manor house on the edge of historic wool town Bradford-on-Avon, while former hunting lodge New Park Manor is surrounded by the natural beauty and wildlife of the New Forest. For stays a little further north, Italianate palace The Ickworth near Bury St Edmunds in Suffolk sits within the stunning 1,800 acre National Trust estate.

Every Luxury Family Hotel property is designed for families of all kinds, offering all the little things required to ensure an enjoyable, relaxing and memory-making stay. Each hotel offers 90 minutes of complimentary childcare per night at the on-site 'Four Bears Den', a Luxury Family Hotels staple. With excellent facilities ranging from indoor and outdoor swimming pools to games and cinema rooms, spas and restaurants, the hotels allow guests to enjoy the luxury of time with those who matter most.

About bbhugme

bbhugme, a wellness brand empowering pregnant women to live a happy and healthy life, was founded in 2013 by 3 Norwegian chiropractors and mothers. When they couldn't find a good enough solution to help their pregnant clients sleep, they created the bbhugme Pregnancy Pillow. Bbhugme has since grown to be a trusted brand creating concepts for sleep, pregnancy, and nursing.

bbhugme knows that being able to relax and sleep during pregnancy is an important step to becoming a mum. Those special nine months are filled with ups and downs, but making sure expectant mothers get the rest they need is their mission. Since day one their partnerships with healthcare affiliates have ensured that they have reached mothers and families around the world.
