MIDDLE EIGHT

Come experience Middle Eight as we transform into a vibrant cultural centre for engaging with creative expression.

At Middle Eight, we are motivated to find new ways of celebrating our heritage, which is rooted in the arts. We are at the nexus of this London scene; with resources, access and knowledge to share with our guests. We see Middle Eight as a discerning curator, a passionate educator, a source of inspiration, and a go-to destination for celebrating creativity at the epicentre of the city's cultural landscape.

Our programmes are focused on reflecting the core components of our ethos through infusing our space. Visitors enjoy a comprehensive experience of multidisciplinary art practice through rotating exhibitions, performances, screenings and more...accompanied by guided tours, group discussions and other frameworks designed to educate and encourage, both on site and throughout London.

Middle Eight aligns with the most revered artists, musicians, choreographers and composers from the local neighbourhood, throughout London and at a globally-recognised level.

Mutually aligned in experimental concepts and multi-dimensional forms of expression, Middle Eight is proud to host Katie Ko's Autumn/Winter 2025 presentation as part of the London Fashion Week 2025 seasonal calendar for leading members of the fashion industry.

In celebration of this milestone, Katie has collaborated with our hospitality team to curate a tea menu, featuring authentic selections with a thoughtful twist.

Growing up in Hong Kong, Katie enjoyed Chrysanthemum tea throughout her childhood, whether it was before ballet training or during her studies where she discovered her admiration for the Impressionist period.

As her creative potential 'blossomed', Katie's heritage and cultural experience would continue to inspire her creative expression.

We invite our guests to enjoy this menu of tea and cocktails, available from the 5th February, before visiting a capsule exhibition of Katie's artworks, located in the Balcony and the Bar.

Katie Ko S/S 2025

Katie Ko is a womenswear designer based in London. Examining the intersection between fashion and fine arts, Ko begins by printing her drawings and paintings onto fabric, experimenting with embroidery to create 3-dimensional interpretations of her drawings, which she then translates onto garments. She pushes the boundaries of fashion, textiles and fine art; employing various techniques in each piece of work, exploring the craftsmanship and extensive details behind couture through sustainable practices.

Ko grew up in Hong Kong, moved to London in 2018 to complete a Foundation Diploma in Art and Design from London College of Fashion, graduated BA (Hons) Fashion Design at Ravensbourne University and MA Fashion at the Royal College of Art. She has since presented her first collection at London Fashion Week S/S 2025 and displayed her "Spider Chrysanthemum Dress" at the Saatchi Gallery during the 22nd London Design Festival.
